POMEROL

Research shows the oldest records regarding the history of Petrus goes all the way back to the mid 1750s, making it one of the earliest established vineyards in Pomerol.

KEY POINTS

- Petrus takes its name from the Greek version of St. Peter, “Petros.”
- Owned by the Arnaud family for the better part of 200 years until the end of World War II, Petrus was then sold to Mme. Loubat, who had progressively acquired the property since 1923. Upon her death in 1961, the estate was passed to her family, who eventually sold it to Jean-Pierre Moueix.
- Jean-Francois Moueix and his children, including Jean Moueix, are the owners of Petrus today.
- Grapes are hand-harvested over 5-6 days and fermented in temperature-controlled concrete tanks.
- The young wine is aged in 50% new French oak for 18 months. Severe pre-assemblage vat selection is carried out and certain parcels are rejected from the Grand Vin.
- Petrus’ new cellars abut the vineyard, which is located at the highest point of the appellation. This offers natural drainage.

THE VINEYARD

- The 11.5-hectare vineyard of Pétrus is located on a plateau in the eastern portion of Pomerol; 100% is planted with Merlot grapes. The soil consists of a high percentage of iron-rich clay.
- The estate was among the first in Bordeaux to implement green-harvesting as a way to lower crop yields and raise the quality of the remaining grapes.
- The yield is among the lowest in Bordeaux, partly through green-harvesting to concentrate the power and quality of the remaining crop (eliminating up to 50% of the crop in certain years).

WHAT MAKES THE TERROIR OF PETRUS SO UNIQUE?

- The clay soils of Petrus are at least 40 million years old.
- The thick gravel on the surrounding plateau is only one million years old.
- There are two layers of clay at Petrus.
- The topsoil of dark clay is 60 to 80 centimeters thick.
- It is the unique subsoil that is not found in any other vineyard.
- When the dry summer months arrive, the vines are still able to feed on the much needed moisture.
- Petrus is unique as its entire 11.5 vineyard is right on top of the clay. Neighboring vineyards only have a portion of blue clay in their soil.

2019

The 2019 Château Pétrus is a behemoth, and I can't imagine a better marriage of sexy, opulent fruit with purity, precision, and length. Dense, concentrated, and incredibly rich on the palate, it has a multi-dimensional mouthfeel and sweet yet substantial tannins. Despite plenty of glycerin and opulence on the palate, which certainly makes it fun to taste today, it has a very straight, classic feel that will demand bottle age. It probably needs to be forgotten for 8-10 years and will deliver the goods over the following 50 years or more.
